ISC Sculpture SYMPOSIUM 2009

Strategies For Success
In Challenging Times

October 9-10,
Hamilton/Princeton,
NJ.

It has been a tough start to the year for many organizations. Leaders working in arts organizations certainly know what it is like to manage a tight budget and work with reduced funds and resources, but for many managers working in a recession is a new experience. However, it is not all gloom and doom, it is a time when creative people thrive, new ideas come out of the chaos and crisis and a renewed sense of community and collaboration can bring about exciting new ways to be productive. This year's symposium is a wonderful opportunity to come together with your peers and colleagues in the art world and share ideas and experiences. The schedule is packed with great speakers and panels and there is time for you to network with the attendees and presenters. And of course there are some fun activities built in too. This year's symposium promises to be an important tool for everyone looking for creative ideas in these challenging times! We hope to see you there!
