RESEARCH NOTES

Arthur E. Covington of the National Research Council draws our attention to two recent works on the inventor and industrialist Thomas L. Willson, usually remembered as "Carbide Willson." A booklet entitled "Carbide--Saga of a Canadian Inventor" is available (free) from Union Carbide Ltd. in either English or French. An article on Willson, "Carbide Willson-1860-1915," by Marion Roberts, in Up the Gatineau! publication of the Historical Society of the Gatineau, No. 2, June 1976.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

The editors have decided to suspend this feature as we have learned that Prof. Alan Richardson and Mr. Bertrum Macdonald of the University of Western Ontario are preparing a bibliography of Canadian science. We welcome this work and hope that it appears soon. Instead of a bibliographic section, we will continue to draw your attention to recent publications.
