Quotation from Raymond Nasher, art collector in Dallas: "Most people think we're a little cuckoo, they'd rather have that new Ferrari.... but for us it's always been art, because when you live with art, you're living with history and with beauty, and with innovation and with creative talent."

The two new buildings for the Museum of Civilization and the National Gallery of Canada, in Ottawa, will cost over $300 million before they are completed.

Plus de 135 000 visiteurs ont visité l'exposition Tableaux de Maîtres français impressionnistes et post-impressionnistes de l'Union soviétique au Musée du Québec, présentée à l'automne 1986.

Information for the above was supplied through: Le Conseil des Arts de la Communauté urbaine de Montréal; Canadian Art (Winter 1987); International Herald Tribune (October 24-25, 1987); Conseil des Arts du Canada, Banque d'œuvres d'art; Musée du Québec; Corporate ARTnews; and ARTnews (November 1987).

This column is dedicated to indicating short but valuable pieces of information related to art and culture. Should you have any important news relative to the art world in Montreal, in Quebec or in Canada, please send it along to us in a brief outline together with some supporting document as to the source of this information.
