

Two Poems

Srisrividhiya Kalyanasundaram

Volume 38, numéro 1, 2022

URI : <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/1095390ar>

DOI : <https://doi.org/10.7202/1095390ar>

Aller au sommaire du numéro

Éditeur(s)

Athabasca University Press

ISSN

0832-6193 (imprimé)

1705-9429 (numérique)

Découvrir la revue

Citer ce document

Kalyanasundaram, S. (2022). Two Poems. The Trumpeter, 38(1), 105–108.
<https://doi.org/10.7202/1095390ar>

Résumé de l'article

How do we open our sense of being? What is to be our intrinsic nature - iyalbu from which action flows freely bound by the laws of a chosen, crafted consciousness? What is this residual loneliness of being that makes us who we are as part of the greater earth? How do we create a sense of belonging? How do we find ourselves - trillions of years old in star dust and tracing our ways back to a single ancestor of life?

Copyright © Srisrividhiya Kalyanasundaram, 2021

Ce document est protégé par la loi sur le droit d'auteur. L'utilisation des services d'Érudit (y compris la reproduction) est assujettie à sa politique d'utilisation que vous pouvez consulter en ligne.

<https://apropos.erudit.org/fr/usagers/politique-dutilisation/>

Cet article est diffusé et préservé par Érudit.

Érudit est un consortium interuniversitaire sans but lucratif composé de l'Université de Montréal, l'Université Laval et l'Université du Québec à Montréal. Il a pour mission la promotion et la valorisation de la recherche.

<https://www.erudit.org/fr/>

Precarious

Srisrividhiya Kalyanasundaram

One being after another one tree after another
we have lost count of the species we have neither counted
nor know is lost...
But strangely even as we speak
the rainforests of our minds
are fast being drained
and we barely notice
in all this normalization of reality.
Whose reality I wonder
this notion of being –
living without the very words
of a long drawn song of life
where home and land
mystic insight
and bodily expression
all flowed into
the flooded being of a nearby river
and deepening soil
formed the humus of the self.

Precarious life, one thread pulls down the forest and another one the human self so noisy, both the destruction and yet so silent as we sit in crowded theaters eating popcorn and listening to yet another propaganda of some voice that we think is reality of our times and we construct other realities in relation to that.
Mind boggling
one thread pulls down the forest
and the other one,
the great interiority of the mind,
and we gaily laugh as we crumble to dust
thinking it must be some new kind of technology.

Line

Srisrividhiya Kalyanasundaram

Earth Body

Clay Self

One entwined into the other

What is a moral decision?

in a political world?

The clay self animates itself

into a thousand forms

and becomes earth body

one undulating line that sweeps across mountain, river, sea, cloud

rain, storm, desert, raccoon,

frog, tiger, elephant, painted stork,

grey heron and ladybug...

Just one undulating line,

that connects all our feet on the ground

and the air....

One single line

and fragmented morals

for a divisive perception,

How can the two meet?

Earth Body

Clay Self

One entwined into the other

What is a moral decision

in a political world
driven by consumptive divisiveness?
One line in harmony
disintegrating into newer and newer worlds...
Old leaf falls down to make new forest.

From the collection Iyalbu¹ - On Being

2017-19

¹ Iyalbu is a Tamil word that captures the essence/ nature of something, it's natural state of being. In this collection, I explore the essence of our own beings, our loneliness that draws us to connect to all that is mundane, and all that is more-than-human.